Welcome to my world

Good Morning Everyone,

Having worked on other crafts for quite a while now I finally sat down yesterday & got some card making done. There are six birthdays on my calendar for July (& then two on August 1st) so I thought I had better make a start.

I made five cards yesterday, the first found the bin quickly, two are in the gallery & the final two actually made the grade - so that is two down & four to go for next month.

Three of those four are for male members of the family, so as long as I get the third one done for a female friend I will buy the others if I get stuck.

Although both birthdays on August 1st are female friends, I could get away with delving in the 'makes' drawer for both as neither follow the website.

Image 1: The current 'Touched by magic' paper collection has exactly two more weeks to roll, though I did work up a new collection in the week.

Image 2: A new template for you now, this one makes a lovely little flower cup, so would make a pretty battery operated tea light holder for indoors & evenings in the garden. Would also be useful for bits & bobs on the desk top, sewing table, inside of a drawer etc. etc.

Images 3 & 4: Okay I had a week off from uploading the designs I did including envelopes, but they were really popular so here is the first of the next set of four. As you can see I am still into my 'yellow' mode!

So these sets are deep decoupage card kits with matching C6 envelope, & they are all yellow!

Image 5: The last of the sailing collection for the men's page this week, these one's are simple framed toppers.

Images 6 & 7: The second of the new 'including envelope' sets for the coming week.

Image 8: With Father's day only a week away now I worked up a new design set for you.

Whereas the regular design sets generally come with four images & four papers I thought I would do something different with this one, so you have eight images & three backgrounds. I even made up some examples for you this time!

Image 9: The twelfth of sixteen of these Alpine flower decoupages, but now I am running two decoupage sets at the same time the page will get a bit muddled!

Image 10 (The other set of decoupages). The third in the series of oval decoupages, with five more to go, this one will be a bit tricky to cut out when you reach the final layer, so you may need to have your craft knife ready!

Image 11: the bonus sheet for this morning is the final one from all of the sailing stuff I put together. So now you have all of the backgrounds & design sheets to play around with!

Having woken to grey low cloud & no sun until late afternoon all week, this morning the sun is out & it feels a bit warmer, but it is supposed to rain later?

Catch you all later.
