Good Morning & a happy Sunday to you all,

Yes, sorry I was getting bored with the newsletter layout again, so let's just see how this one works out, for today at least.

I really need to spend a whole day playing around with it until I get it just right, but the problem is that every week the number of images I have to preview varies so I can't use a set format....!

Image 1: The final full week of this current paper collection coming up with just a few rolling over until the following week. I can hardly wait to show you the new one; I think you are going love it!

Image 2: I wasn't sure what to do with this image so it has been in the resource file for a long time, but then it struck me that it would make a beautiful get well card, so I finally got around to working with it.

Here I have created the oval decoupage format that you seem to like & I have added a couple of banner greetings to the sheet, plus a mini image for you to use on the insert or back of the card.

Images 3, 4 & 5: The second in this little series I created from the individual flowers from other decoupages, & this one is obviously the daisy type.

So a full sheet decoupage, a full sheet backing paper & the matching C6 envelope, & if you print the envelope out twice you can easily make two cards from this trio.

Image 6: I have loads of images similar to this in my resource files but haven't had the inspiration to use them up to now. But I wasn't thinking outside of the box..... if I shrunk it down to cover the front of an A6 card it would look far better than a piece cut from a full sheet, so that is what I did. Incidentally it is the music sheet for A Christmas Carol, & I can do more of them if you like this one.

Image 7: The penultimate Halloween sheet I did for this year, as I have mentioned previously we don't really send Halloween cards here in the UK so the fact that my source images are very meager hasn't really been a problem, but I know it is big in the USA so I may try & find soe new images ready for next year?

Image 8: A lovely vintage Santa image for you now that I simply spent time creating decoupage layers from for you to use.

Image 9: Another card kit format from the 'mouth watering card kits & toppers' file, & I thought I would do something bit different with this one so decouped both images.

Image 10: A backing paper that was designed to accompany the 'vintage office' toppers & stuff that I have been uploading for you recently.

Image 11: More backgrounds for the vintage office sheets now, but as with the Christmas Carol sheet I have designed these to fit an A6 card front.

Image 12: The bonus sheet for this morning is the final Halloween sheet for this year, a bunch of toppers to finish off your spooky designs with!
