Welcome to my world

Good morning everyone,

Another of the die & stamp sets that I ordered arrived yesterday, days ahead of the estimated delivery. I do love things arriving early, as opposed to there being a delay.

This is a little boy playing football & as I have two of my great nephew's birthdays coming up next month, it will be perfect.

But I am going to have to put some pressure on the mums of all seven of my great nephews & nieces this week, as they still haven't given me any ideas about what to buy for their kids this Christmas, & there are only seven weeks (on Tuesday) to go – in other words one gift purchase per week.

Image 1: The current Starry Skies paper collection is about a quarter uploaded, so a few more weeks on that still to come.

Image 2: The third sheet from the Costume file; this time a mirrored decoupage that I laid over a ivory oval panel, which has a creamy mat behind, to enhance it.

Image 3: The third in this new generation of projects where I have given you not only the imperial measurement alongside the metric, but also the brand & name of the dies I used to create it, wherever possible anyhow.

Here I have left a blank panel in the centre for you to add your greeting – came up with this before I bought the stamp platform or I may have been tempted to add a greeting to the design.

Image 4: As I have mentioned previously, now I have the calendar base set up & am able to create a design around them.

Here I have used some vintage images & added an extension to their backgrounds in order to give me enough space to insert the list calendar.

The file contains the complete calendar for 2019, including a front panel.

Image 5: Here another modern decoupage card kit design, this one has a whole raft of stars (& loads of extra one's), there is another with just the main star & a different greeting, that I will upload for you soon.

Image 6: Don't think I mentioned in the updates that I actually did get around to typing up some notes on how to make the 'action wobblers' for your projects.

I took lots of pictures & did the usual step by step guide for you to follow. They are really easy to make & great fun to use too!

Image 7: The third sheet from the head dress file, this one a layered toper with lots of extras for you to play with, plus of course the hint of the background papers that accompany the set.

Image 8: I have designed a variety of one page calendars from the other base calendar format. I often laminate these & give them as gifts to the girls at the dentist etc. I dubbed this one 'family'.

Image 9: I did a whole bunch of Christmas word stuffs ages ago, from these background sheets to greeting tabs & thought it was high time that I got them uploaded.

Here are two identical sheets of background text, simply using the 'Merry Christmas' greeting repeatedly, with a change of font each time. Would work well as a card background, but equally as gift wrap for smaller items.

Catch you all later.
