

The Paper Craft Tutor.com

Welcome to my world

Sunday, December 23, 2018

Good morning everyone,

I generally comment around this time of year on how fast the year has passed but somehow this year, for me anyhow, has gone at about the right pace for a change, as it does feel like twelve months since we last celebrated Christmas.

I hope you are all set for the big day on Tuesday & for those folks who won't get time to check back on the website beforehand, let me wish you a wonderful Christmas now.

For those new to the website in the past twelve months I just want to mention that I update the site 365 days a year, as there are people out there who won't have anyone to share their Christmas with so I like to do a quick update when I get home from my sisters on Christmas Day, especially for them.

However it may be later than usual as I generally spend the whole day there & so it may be after 6pm before I get back to do the update.

Image 1: I now have three paper collections sitting on file, there were four but I subsequently went off the one that was my favourite when I finished it - so I am going with this colourful pansies collection instead.

Image 2: I created a whole bunch of these pretty decoupages at some point & for some odd reason decided to stop when I had completed the eleventh one - unless I have uploaded on at some point by mistake?

So at this point there are eleven in the series to collect, though I may decide to round off the numbers & do another one before we get to the end of them?

Image 3: A new design set where I have used the same image resource file that I used to create the most recent oval decoupages with.

As ever there are four images, each with its own background sheet & all in one downloadable file.

Image 4: Another of those oval decoupages that you still seem to like so much, this one depicts a little girl playing dress up with her dolls whilst out in the garden.

Image 5: Another new design for the men's page now, this features men flying a vintage aircraft, & happily I don't think I have ever used this image before!

I do tend to hone in on the same images in my resource files repeatedly I just hope that I use them in different formats each time!

Image 6: I mentioned last week when I uploaded one of the sheets that I had selected a small part of that image to create other sheets from & this is the first of those.

I used a small grouping of flowers from that sheet to create the frame on this one, & as I had space on the page I have added a couple of them to embellish your frame or project with.

Image 7: Something for the kids page now, two decoupage pirate toppers in different sizes, so two for the price of one as it were.

Image 8: The second sheet from the small series of framed canine toppers, which were simply my release from working on all things Christmas!

I will try to find some nice feline images in my resource files, & follow these canine toppers up with some of those.

Image 9: Another of the oval decoupage formats that I know you like. Here I have used an image from the vintage fashions resource file that I know I have already used in another format in the past.

But as I said earlier, somehow I am drawn back to the same images repeatedly?

I have decided that I will probably split the weekend housework up over today & tomorrow, though I may forget I have made that decision & get it all done today anyhow!

Catch you all later.

Rita x